What we see

- Lead campaign's first run produced nothing. CS | Leads spent $684 from Sep 15–22 with zero form fills, then went dark until Sep 29. Since the relaunch it has 3 fills on $491 ($164 each).
- Form Start is the volume engine. 5.14% CTR and $0.66 CPC are the best in the account, and it is spending about $135/day. Two fills in five days puts it at $337 per fill so far, which is still early.
- Traffic is cheap but not built for leads. It drives 60% of impressions for 15% of spend. Its two fills on Oct 4 are welcome but shouldn't be counted on.
- Next: watch Form Start for another week before shifting budget, and compare these fill counts against the form submissions Dave sees on his side.

Source: Creekside's daily Meta Ads sync, Aug 31 – Oct 6, 2026. Form fills are the conversions Meta reports for each campaign. Meta's own last-30-day account view shows 10 conversions on $2,106 of spend, so attribution windows differ slightly from the daily sync. Inactive legacy campaigns had no spend and are left out.
